

WE NOMINATE

George Stuart Hendry, a Princetonian since 1949 and one of this country's most distinguished, and soft-spoken, theologians, who 15 years ago struck the spark which this past week made possible the publication of the New Testament part of The New English Bible. It was on May 15, 1946, that the now 57-year old Hendry, then pastor at Bridge of Allan, Scotland, "blurted out what many had in mind" and presented to the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland (on behalf of the Presbytery of Stirling and Dunblane) the overture that led to the making of the new English Bible, a completely new translation from the Greek and Hebrew into the English of the 20th century.

Hendry, Hodge Professor of Systematic Theology at Princeton Theological Seminary for the past 12 years, emphasizes that he has had no direct contact with "The New Bible" for well over a decade. Nonetheless, he was primarily responsible for negotiating the agreements that resulted in the support of the undertaking by the major American and Protestant denominations in the United Kingdom and also activated the operating machinery, including three panels of translators (New Testament, Old Testament and Apocrypha) as well as the anonymous panel of the distinguished literary advisers charged with watch-dogging over the English of the scholars' translations.

Contrary to the implications of American reviewers, many of whom have conveyed the impression that "The New English Bible" is vying with the Authorized or King James Version in the 350th anniversary year of the latter, the newly issued translation represents "a clamant need for a new version in religious education." Hendry, for some 20 years a school chaplain in Scotland, notes: "the language of the King James Version can constitute a formidable barrier between the child and the message of the Bible"—a barrier explaining why a "precious half-hour" has often been wasted in clarifying the meaning of words rather than the message that should be imparted.

The first Secretary of the Joint Committee of the British Churches on the New Translation (1946-1949), Hendry reports that the New Testament, of which the Oxford and Cambridge University Presses have already issued some 1,000,000 copies, is the trial-and-error work of some of the world's most eminent Biblical scholars. "Draft translations were prepared by individual members of each panel," Hendry recalls, and "were then carefully scrutinized by the whole panel, 'verse by verse, sentence by sentence.'" The literary panel then gave "much time and thought to the style of the English." Through it all runs the 20th century concept of scholarly team-work!

Hendry, Scottish-born and Scottish-trained at the Universities of Aberdeen and Edinburgh, has never lacked the courage of his convictions. A close friend of John Alexander Mackay, President Emeritus of the Seminary, the magnet who helped attract him to Princeton in 1949, he didn't hesitate to state in 1946: "The language of the Authorized Version is archaic and has become largely unintelligible to the people; and the work of the Church, both in preaching the Gospel and in instructing the young, is gravely impeded in consequence."

For his contributions to a notable event in the history of Biblical scholarship; for understanding that the relevance of the Bible belongs to all ages, and particularly the harum-scarum 20th century; for serving without recognition in a major venture both as "believer and literary artist"; he is Town Topics' nominee for

"LET'S PLAN AHEAD"
For Education. When 1960 comes around, will Princeton be able to meet the educational needs of its boys and girls?
Or, to put it another way,
"Where do we go from here?"

The instruction committees of Borough and Township school boards have been con-fering together regularly — and will meet again on April 17 — to try to define the problems they can consider jointly and to look, if they can, far enough into the future to work out solutions for problems that may exist two decades from now.

Last week, 300 teachers from all the sending districts of Princeton High School met at the school to exchange views on curricula and to explore areas where procedures might be improved. Both instruction committees regard the meeting as highly successful and smaller groups will now follow up the ideas that were suggested at the meeting.

In the Township, the Board of Education has appointed Richard Pearson chairman of a long-range study committee which will train its telephones on the future.

"We're so caught up in day-to-day problems that we can't sit back and think," Mr. Pearson says. "We ought to ask ourselves whether the school situation we have today will meet the goals of our children five years from now, or even 20 years from now."

College Enrollment to Double.
Mr. Pearson points out that by 1980, about 80 percent of the 15-22 year age group will be in college. (The present
son, is 40 percent). He believes that, in view of this, the colleges themselves will have to change — there will have to be more two-year colleges, more teachers' colleges with liberal arts courses, more vocational schools and so on — and he suggests that Princeton keep these goals in mind when planning for the future.

"Those 80 percent are not all going to the highly-selective colleges," Mr. Pearson points out. "What about the others?"
We should think in terms of giving these boys and girls the kind of secondary training they will need for the colleges that will become available to them.

"Shouldn't we try to offer, in our community, continuous kindergarten — through — post-secondary training?" Mr.
Pearson asks. "Perhaps Mercer County will be ready by 1980, for a public two-year college. Surely we should think of offering the technical training that's going to be so necessary in our society in the next decades. Even now, about two years of this training is necessary, after high school, in many fields."

Princeton High School has had an agricultural program for some years and commercial education also, but Mr. Pearson feels that these should be examined in the interest of Princeton High's future graduates who will not be going on to standard colleges. One-half of Princeton

High's graduates now go to college.

Early Guidance Needed.
Dropping down a level or two,
Mr. Pearson suggests that guidance programs for seventh and eighth graders be strenghtened so that children will be able to decide wisely about the high school courses they should take, and the kind of post-high school education they want, if any. Mr. Pearson believes that, as Princeton grows and changes, probably becoming more suburban, firm guidance in the lower grades will be more important than it is now when the community is relatively stable.

For the April 17 meeting,
Dr. William Purcell, superintendent of Township Schools, and Dr. Chester Strop, superintendent of Borough schools, will have such statistics as the exact number of high school graduates who now go to college, who the number enter the labor market, the possible population of the community in the next few decades, and so on.

"Then," says Mr. Pearson,
"we can see where we go from here."

WORKSHOPS HELD

In Health. Education. "Are we really reaching the people we want to reach?" asked one participant, gloomily, toward the end of one of the workshops held Monday at the YM-YWCA by the Council of Community Services. "How do you crack the socio-economic barrier, anyhow?"

The Council has been sponsoring community workshops as an inventory device to show what the community has, and what it does not have, and what is essential service. At Monday's workshop about three dozen Princeton women representing as many Council agencies met to discuss health, education and migrant workers, and to tell each other what their agencies are doing to educate adults, provide homemaker service for the sick, maintain community health.

guide young people into happy marriages, and so on.

It was the women in the adult education seminar who felt, at the end, that they were not reaching the people who needed them most: the people at the lower end of the economic scale.

"If we offer courses in child rearing, marriage, pre-natal care and so on, we just don't hit the people who ought to take those courses," said one woman. Another participant suggested that it is only educated people who accept the notion of "taking a course" to learn something and that therefore, the whole idea of offering courses might be pointless.

Members of the workshop concluded that the "socio-economic barrier" could best be crashed by enlisting ministers, school guidance directors and possibly juvenile court authorities in the task of informing people in need about the agencies that could help them.

"buy in" to the Borough's health services, and that the Borough health officer, David Blake, had plenty of time to serve other areas than the Borough.

"Most communities have a health officer for every 50,000 persons," said Mrs. Arthur Wagner of the Borough Board of Health. "We have Mr. Blake and an assistant for the Borough alone."

Dr. Jeanette Munro, director of the Borough's well-baby clinic, said that West Windsor Township joined the clinic this week with a roster of 26 West Windsor mothers. There are now 54 Borough mothers registered with the free clinic, according to Dr. Munro.

In outlining the work of the clinic, Dr. Munro said that she felt the Township ought to know that many Township mothers called her to enroll their children in the clinic. Township officials have taken the position that the community does not need the well-baby service, said Dr. Munro. Last month's Council of Community Services workshops dealt with recreation and employment for youth. In April, the Council will use the report of the White House Conference as a check-list for Princeton. Reports of all agencies will be sent to all agencies to send representatives.

PERSON TO PERSON

When talking about peoples governed and controlled by dictators an acquaintance gave us a quotation taken from Winston Churchill on that subject:

"Tyrannies may restrain or regulate men's words. The machinery of propaganda may pack their minds with falsehood and deny them truth many generations of time. But the soul of man that held in trance or frozen in a long night can be awakened by a spark coming from God knows where and in a moment the whole structure of lies and oppression is on trial for its life."

Our friend said that in all human evil has never been based upon the enslavement of man cannot last forever. He said he risked one card the future and the present enemy is the strongest the world has ever known. So in the meantime, thank God our Navy's Polaris Missile submarines, which are this nation's and the world's GREATEST DETERRENT to all out war.

It is comforting to realize that history and right and our Navy's might are all on our side, and at this point we doubt that you will mind our throwing in the fact that we are on YOUR side for maximum values and satisfaction.

PERSONALITIES

Dr. Charles R. Erdman, 30 Boudinot Street, who announced this week that he will retire from the State Republican chairmanship "in favor of a younger man." The 63-year old sickle, mayor of Princeton has set April 27, date of the first meeting of the new state G.O.P. committee as the occasion for naming of his successor after having filled the unsalaried post on virtually a full-time basis for two and a half years.

Joseph Joustra, 2703 Princeton Pike, who on Monday, March 29, observed a milestone attained by few men as the occasion for his 100th birthday. A native of Holland, he frequently appeared as a clarinetist with orchestras playing for various benefit programs in this area.

Miss Rosalind Webster, 35 Boudinot Street, named a Durant Schuler, Wesley College's top academic honor, for the second year in a row. A graduate of Princeton's School of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence B. Webster achieved Phi Beta Kappa membership earlier this year. Joseph Stevens, Province Line Road, member of Anderson's top-flight hockey team who has been awarded the Summer Smith award in the sport for outstanding play, endeavor and sportsmanship during his three years on the varsity.

ROUND-UP

The State Senate has passed a bill which will grant an $500 assessment deduction annually to homeowners over $5 whose combined income is less than $5,000. If passed by the Assembly and signed by the Governor, it will save the average homeowner about $70 a year in taxes. Other property owners will find their tax bills slightly higher to keep the municipal budget even.

More than two inches of rain fell last week, and the thermometer's excursions to lower levels kept winter on hand until almost the final hour of its welcome demise. Tomorrow all-time records were almost shattered Saturday, when a low of 13 was recorded. Sunday's high was 37 and on Friday the top reading was one degree above freezing.

A TOWN TOPICS reader telephoned with a word of appreciation for William Watt, 44 Harrison Street, who serves as a school crossing guard at the Nassau-Harrison intersection. On a cold, blustery day, a kindergarten "customer" of Mr. Watt lost her school papers and hat to the wind, whereupon he guided her across the street in pursuit, picked up her papers and tied her hat back on "under her chin."

Robert W. DeWitt, 82 Grover, has joined the staff of Joseph Shinn, Township building inspector, as an assistant. A resident of the municipality for the past 15 years, Mr. DeWitt was formerly in the auto parts business.

Frederick L. Arnold, 37, 12 East Stanworth, missed a turn on Hernton Road last Thursday at 1:55 a.m. Township police report that his car struck a mailbox on the side of the road, then a guy wire, and came to rest on its side against a tree. Mr. Arnold was uninjured but his car had to be towed away.

Princetonians were buckling this week about a newspaper story which hardly struck a blow for happy marriages... a man arguing with his wife banged her head against the wall and $10,600 in gold and silver coins fell out.

SABBATICALS PLANNED

For Township Teachers. Township teachers or administrative officials with seven years or more of service will be eligible to participate in a new sabbatical plan that will go into effect next year in the Township school system.

Under the terms of the new plan, the teacher will spend his free year in either study or travel or both, examining intensively some problem concerning his particular field or the school system as a whole. He will receive half of his regular salary and will agree to return after his sabbatical and remain for three years with the Township school system.

During his leave, he may not earn money except with school board permission. He will report regularly to the superintendent of schools regarding his progress and will present a final report when he returns.

Dr. William Purcell superintendent of schools, told the School Board Thursday night that 16 members of the faculty are now eligible for sabbaticals. He said that school administrators would choose applicants according to the merits of their projects and would arrange schedules so that all 16 would not be away from school in the same year.

The Board also announced, in enacting its policies on leaves, that it would grant leaves of absence to teachers accepted by the State Department's International Education Exchange Program.

Six teachers who will have completed three years with the Township in June, were offered tenure by the Board at Thursday night's meeting. They are Eugene Doherty, Mrs. Helen Geary, Mrs. Edith Jeffries, Mrs. Barbara Lorber, Mrs. Leah Riddle and Mrs. Alice Rosson.

Board member Leonard Hymerling, reporting on the progress of the new Community Gardens School, said that Fulmer and Bowers, architects, would have working drawings ready by May 15 and that construction could begin August 1.

Board members then asked Mr. Hymerling why the architects had not met the March 15 deadline they had agreed to for working drawings, and why there had been a two months' delay in obtaining the survey of the school property from Van Note-Harvey Associates, engineers.

Mr. Hymerling said that, after considerable delay the engineering firm had finally produced its survey, but that it was in error and showed Guyer Avenue 90 feet away from where it should have been. Mr. Hymerling said that a new survey was being made. He also said that he would meet with representatives of Fulmer and Bowers to find out why the March 15 deadline had not been met.

The weighty question of who is to clear off Township sidewalks when it snows — the Township or the property owner — was tabled Monday night by Township Committee following a report on the subject by Committee member Maurice Healy and William Marvel and Administrator Joseph Nini.

The snow subcommittee recommended that the Township remove the snow and charge it to general expenses because the sidewalks were used as a public thoroughfare by children walking to school and because many sidewalks had been constructed for this purpose over the owners' protests.

Committee member John S. Mount disagreed with the report. He said the cost of such a program might raise the tax rate by two points, and that if the Township took on the responsibility of shoveling sidewalk snow, it might just as well assume the task of mowing right-of-way grass.

He raised the question of "the responsibilities of citizenship" and said he felt that each owner should clear his own walk.

In defense, Mr. Healy spoke of the increasing urbanization of the community and suggested that the whole matter involved policy questions which should be settled soon. It was at this juncture that the report was tabled for study.

Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman reported on a meeting held on March 2 between the Board of Recreation Commissioners. Continued on Page 4 and a representative from the firm of Clarke and Rapun, landscape engineers, who are designing Community Gardens.

He told Committee that, according to a present general plan, there will be a flow of lawn on the south side of Route 206 with no visible boundary between the new school's property and the Gardens. Space has been provided for a new Civic Building with additional parking, roughly between the new school and the present Township Hall.

On the west side of the extension of John Street, there will be a continuation of the strip-parking planned for the south boundary of the school. The strip will run along the north of the Leigh Avenue houses, with an exit at Race Court games such as basketball and volleyball will be played along this street, and the same fence will be used to define the courts and to fence off the parking area.

The plot from John to Bayard Lane will be one big lawn, with a softball diamond and possibly hardball.

Across Route 206, plans call for what Mayor Fauman referred to as "architectural" games; that is, swimming pool, tennis courts, skating rink and so on.

Committee authorized the engineering department to retain an engineer to prepare two-foot contour topographical maps for landscape engineers that final plans can be drawn.

In other business, Committee unanimously accepted the recommendation of Assessor Stuart Rohson to the County Tax Board that Mercer County should the 100 percent ratio in property valuation. Mr. Nini and Mr. Robson were asked to prepare a formal resolution incorporating the Committee's views and Mr. Rohson's views, and send the resolution to the County Tax Board and to other municipalities in Mercer County.

Committee also adopted the recommendation of Mr. Nini and Township Attorney Gordon Griffin that the Township regulate raffles by following the state statute, rather than adopting a new raffles ordinance. Raffles were approved by voters in the Township last November.

INTERIOR PARKING SEEN
Off Witherspoon Street. Negotiations currently being conducted by Princeton Borough Council are expected to lead to the creation of an interior parking lot in the area between Witherspoon and Tulane Streets, behind the Nassau Street stores. Establishment of off-street parking in this section, considered the single most hard-pressed business area for parking facilities, has been advocated by planning officials for 15 years now.

As announced by Mayor Raymond F. Male at last week's meeting of Borough Council, first step toward creating the projected parking lot would be acquisition of the property at 21 Witherspoon Street, now occupied by the former Lamplighter Restaurant building. This would provide an entrance to the lot off Witherspoon Street.

Acquisition of additional properties in the area, also under negotiation now, would provide an exit from the lot into Tulane Street. As envisioned by Borough Council, both entrance and exit would be one-way, to avoid traffic congestion.

Council's hope according to Councilman William H. Walker 2nd, is to provide parking space for 75 vehicles. Persons parking in the lot would be able to enter Nassau and Witherspoon Street stores from the rear. In addition, the projected lot would provide an unloading area for trucks delivering merchandise to stores, thus cutting down on commercial parking on Witherspoon and Nassau Streets.

A tulip, a crocus
And a daffodil!

—Wiso Ray

The early hint of mild weather hasn't been repeated much of late, but the spring flowers were beginning to make an appearance for those who took the time to look.

Now that spring is here, the Man hopes to make at least a token bow in its direction this weekend. A gradually warming trend is scheduled to set in Thursday afternoon. Things could be quite pleasant along about Saturday.

"HAMLET" ELABORATE
In McCarter Production. Previous productions in McCarter's spring Shakespeare series have stressed the play and the actors rather than the production, but the "Hamlet" that will open this Thursday at 8:30 p.m. and will be presented again Friday and Saturday evenings and Saturday afternoon has been staged with pomp and ceremony.

Costumes by Ann Roth will provide as many as five changes for some of the principals, to cite one example, and the costumes themselves will be more elaborate than the basic garments worn in previous productions. The stage will once again be the Elizabethan stage superimposed on the McCarter stage for the purpose of these Shakespeare offerings.

Ellis Rabb, director of "Hamlet," has chosen to use several scenes, including the gravedigger's scene, from the First Quarto, rather than the usual Second Quarto scenes. These First Quarto scenes have never before been played in this country, according to Mr. Rabb.

"Hamlet" is the final offering of the Association of Producing Artists' series. Richard Easton will play the title role.

COMDEN AND GREEN DUE
On April 21, "A Party With Betty Comden and Adolph Green" will be held in McCarter Theatre on Friday, April 21, under the auspices of C-K Productions. The show will include songs and sketches from the long line of Comden and Green Broadway shows, such as "Bells are Ringing," "On the Town," "Do Re Mi" and "Singing in the Rain."

The two performers began their careers at the Village Vanguard in New York and after an abbreviated appearance in a movie called "Greenwich Village," decided to write a show with fat parts in it which they could play themselves. That show, with music by Leonard Bernstein and dances by Jerome Robbins, was "On the Town," and it marked the beginning of the Comden and Green success story.

Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times said of the pair: "Their songs and sketches are brilliant pieces of theatre and Miss Comden and Mr. Green are ideal performers. They have the experience of the professional although they have not lost the enthusiasm of the amateur."

Tickets for the McCarter performance are now on sale at the University Store or through Box 591, Princeton.

THE PLAYHOUSE
Cimarron (March 22-28). While the Garden continues its admirable series of Monday re-runs, we are treated at the Playhouse with a not-so-admirable series of re-makes, of which "Cimarron" is the latest example. It would seem that any picture filmed before the advent of wide-screen and color must therefore be in-

THE PLAYS THE THING: And "Hamlet" is the play this week on the McCarter Theatre boards. Richard Easton of the APA Company will celebrate his 28th birthday by playing Hamlet, off and on, since he was 19 years old, and has been cited by Canadian critics as "Canada's finest Hamlet."

adequate for modern viewing. Edna Ferber's "Cimarron" was filmed in 1931 by RKO and starred Richard Dix and Irene Dunne. It is still considered one of the outstanding Westerns of all time. The 1961 version, starring Glenn Ford and Maria Schell, has more color, more screen space, a larger cast to fill it and a poorer grade of actors. The one spectacle scene, however, that of the land race for the Oklahoma territory, is very excitingly and lavishly staged.

Ford has a strange role as Yancey Cravat, the adventurer known as Cimarron, who moves in and out of the story. After his initial settling in Oklahoma, he leaves his family for five years, returns and then leaves again for 11 more. The acting load therefore falls upon Miss Schell (one n' Germany's top actresses making her third American picture) as his wife, a role she handles very well. In color and CinemaScope, with Anne Baxter, Arthur O'Connell and the Roger Wagner Chorus.

The Millionairess (March 29-April 1). When Sophie Loren, as a spoiled heiress, opens a new hospital clinic, she proudly boasts, "I have the most beautiful equipment in the world." This sort of statement tells what this picture will be like: a series of farces and double meanings leaning heavily on sex as a subject.

Happily, however, Peter Sellers is also in the movie and manages to keep it above the usual run-of-the-mill "racy" comedy. Sellers, one of England's top comics, plays his role as the unseductive doctor fairly straight and comes off quite well by utilizing the British type of understatement comedy.

Miss Loren's acting ability is limited to posing, but, then, who's to say that's necessarily

The League of Gentlemen (March 21-25) is another of the subtle, comedy-thrillers that the English film-makers seem to have so much success with. Starring Jack Hawkins and Nigel Patrick, the picture is like Alec Guinness' "Ladykillers" with white tie and tails.

Hawkins is an ex-Lieutenant Colonel in the Army who represents his forcible retirement. To even the score with his country, he conducts a study of the Post Office, banking and electrical installations systems, and sets up a massive bank robbery plan on a scale approximating a full-scale military operation.

Working from an American (naturally) crime novel, "The Golden Fleece," Hawkins organizes his League of Gentlemen from old Army records, and proceeds with the fantastic, intricate and complex scheme, "Operation Golden Fleece." Director Basil Dearden directs the picture with a nice balance between comedy and suspense. Recommended.

PAJAMA GAME (March 27-28) is a film musical comedy as it should be. The plot is simple, there is very little tragedy and the singing and dancing are excellent. Furthermore, Hollywood hasn't tried to spice it up with additional songs and stars.

Doris Day is the only Hollywood addition to the original Broadway cast and is a perfect complement to the robust singing of John Raitt. Carol Haney handles the dancing and Eddie Foy, Jr. the comedy. Songs include "Hernando's Hide-away," "Hey There," "Steam Heat" and "Once-A-Year Day."

IT'S ANTIQUE TIME

Wellness Has Exhibit, Last year's venture into antiques was so successful for the Wellness Club that it will be repeated this year, although it's not a venture any more, come to think of it.

Browsers and buyers may spend next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in the gymnasium at Princeton Country Day School, exploring the displays set up by antique dealers from every part of New Jersey and from across the Delaware, too. The show will be open from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday and from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Thursday.

One of the most striking exhibits will come from the fertile imagination of the Princeton Decorating Shop. The shop will offer a pink bedroom decorated around a quilt which has been custom-made for the shop by a quilter in northern New Jersey.

This sample will show you the style and workmanship which you can have in a quilt if you order for yourself, either in your own fabric or in a fabric chosen for you by the quilt maker. (These quilts, surely in the "tomorrow's heirloom" category, start at $60.)

A shop in New Hope will exhibit an impressive and valuable piece of Delft, dating to the years around 1680. It's a Lambeth Delft Montebell bowl, a true collector's item for anyone familiar with Delft.

The same shop will show a pair of Chelsea Derby figures—boy and a girl with that leaf foliage background which is so typically Chelsea.

If you collect clocks, you'll be interested in the big 30-day wall clock which probably came from a bank, and was probably used to time the fore-closure of mortgages. A French solid bronze clock has a gift image of Napoleon crossing the Alps.

Raw books, old pieces of copper and pewter from Britain will also be shown.

Incidentally, there will be a balanced mixture of both formal and country styles in the pieces of furniture on display at the show. The pine dry sink will be next to the Queen Ann and all tastes will be served. Lunch and tea will be available each day. You may buy casserole, salad and roll, dessert and coffee, or sandwich in piece of casserole, for $1.25. Lunch will be served from 11:30 to 1:30. Afternoon tea or coffee, with homemade cookies, brownies and cakes, will be 50 cents. And the Helen Elliott Candy Company will have a booth to sustain you from lunch until tea-time.

PURE CORK

Aged? You Kuddid? From the still countryside around Albany, Georgia, comes a clear and potent brew which is just about as classic as you can get in the liquor business. It's Georgia Moon, corn whiskey less than 30 days old, according to the label—clear as air, pure as a Georgia maiden and strong as a mule-kick.

Buy it (but keep it away from open flame) at The Pink Elephant. 100 proof.

This is the whiskey you've read about that has made such a stir because of its unique packaging. In some states, you can buy it in an old-fashioned jar with wide mouth and screw top, just the way they bottle it in the southern mountains.

In New Jersey, however, you've got to buy it in a regular liquor bottle, presumably because the alcohol people think you might confuse it with grandma's pickles. After one drink, of course, you may well be pickled yourself but this is your problem.

Kentucky Tavern sends the Pink Elephant some handsome ship's decanters full of K.T. They are wide, round-bottomed quarts or half-gallons, designed like the no-roll decanters used in captain's quarters. Or maybe you'd prefer Cabin Still's replica of an old still, complete with rack and "cooper" stopper.

An Italian distiller named Romazotti, pours Triple Anisette into a clear glass bell decanter. You may also want the aperitif Vermouth, Punt e Mes, two bottles in a carton that looks like a cardboard knitting box.

New York State winners produce a sparkling Burgundy, a

Elves in the Workroom

Nassau Interiors has uncovered a slip-cover man, who works with such skill and such dispatch that customers suspect he has a work room of round-the-clock elves in his employ.

Choose your fabric from any of the spring bolts at Nassau Interiors, then ask for the slip-cover man. He will come to your home, let's say, on a Monday or a Tuesday, pin-it the covers, cut them out and have them finished and on your furniture by the week-end. If you can believe it.

Speed does not mean sloppiness, either. The covers are pattern-matched, fashioned with lined or double fabric skirts and fitted without a sign of wrinkle. Nassau Interiors' man is the one to call for those difficult chairs whose contours defy the skill of most fitters. Try him and see.

pink champagne and champagne itself for $2.99. Mason Blanche is what you ask for.

And why not fight the battles all over again over a bottle of Johnny Reb, a 50 proof six-year-old sour mash Kentucky straight bourbon?

BURLAP AT BAILEY'S

Kitts! Those burlap skirts you have enjoyed so much are now available in kitts, of all things, and Bailey's has them in black, red, beige or brown for $6.95.

As a matter of fact, the casual spring and summer skirts in the Shopping Center store are really noteworthy this year. They have been designed here in Princeton and made in New York by the Bailey workrooms there.

One is a flared duck with that classic curving pocket you find in denim play clothes, wide and sturdy belt tabs, double top stitching in black and a wrap-around cut. In natural duck or navy denim for $6.95.

Another navy denim (and this is a rich, dark navy, not a faded blue) has unpressed pleats, a belt, and a great big pocket on each side of the skirt. It comes, also, in red, black or green ticking stripe for $8.95.

Solids are deep brown, light or dark green and beige. Its simple lines and useful colors make this skirt a real backbone for your supermarket.

QUARTET IS HEARD

Performance Is Exemplary. On Monday night the Juilliard String Quartet presented a concert in McCarter Theatre which was extraordinary in every respect. The program itself, consisting of three movements of the chamber music literature, was of exceptional interest, and the performances were, in every respect, exemplary. Beethoven's "Quartet in F minor, Op. 95," his last before the so-called late quartets, anticipates many aspects of those works. The contrast between tenderness and almost Schubertian lyricism in the first movement, the fantasy and drastic changes in rate of motion in the last, were vividly portrayed in an interpretation of great insight.

"The 'Fifth Quartet' of Bela Bartok has by now become something of a classic. It is one of Bartok's most characteristic compositions, and is one of the most grateful modern works for the medium. It is interesting to note that the Juilliard Quartet's interpretation of Bartok has changed somewhat since they first performed all six of the quartets in two Town Hall concerts over a decade ago. Then, their emphasis was on energy, virtuosity, drastic contrast and excitement; and exciting performances they were. Since then they have evolved a more mature performance, without sacrificing imagination and expression they have achieved a more subtle interpretation, with the contrasts less exaggerated, emphasizing continuity.

The Juilliard Quartet made its reputation playing works of such composers as Bartok, Schoenberg and Webern, and at the time they first achieved prominence as an ensemble, their interpretation of late eighteenth and nineteenth century works sometimes seemed overly choppy and frenetic, and their tone quality edgy. Since then, all trace of such flaws has vanished. Their performance of Mozart's incomprehensible "Quintet in G minor," as in the Beethoven earlier, they again have an ability to spin out long lyrical lines, with restraint, warmth, and sensitivity. A remarkable performance of one of the most remarkable pieces ever written.

All the members of the quartet are superb musicians (as the violinist Walter Trampler, who joined them in the Mozart quintet), and their rapport as an ensemble is uncommon. In every musical medium there are always certain artists who, in a sense, set the standards. The Juilliard Quartet has achieved that position — they are now far and away the finest string quartet in this country. Their technical accomplishment is astonishing, their flexibility of timbre and expression is unrivaled, and they are able to grasp the essence of different musical styles with penetrating insight. It would be difficult to imagine finer string quartet performances, in any respect, than those given Monday night by the Juilliard Quartet.

LEWIN WORK FEATURE

Op. 95 Symphony Program. A new work written especially for the Princeton Symphony Orchestra by Frank Lewin of 113 Magnolia Lane will be a feature of the orchestra's third concert of this season, to be given Monday at 8:30 p.m. in McCarter Theatre. Mr. Lewin's work, entitled "Evocation." Mr. Lewin, who is production manager of Filmsound, Inc., New York, has previously composed pieces for various productions of the Community Players and the University Players, as well as for film, theatre and concert stage. He has studied at the New York conservatories and received his B.A. degree from Yale University in 1961.

HIS NEW COMPOSITION ON PROGRAM: "Evocation" by Frank Lewin, Princeton composer, is on the program of the Youth Concert to be played Monday by the Princeton Symphony Orchestra.

Other works to be included now in its 19th edition, and of the forthcoming volume, "All About the Symphony Orchestra and What It Plays," is written for the 10-14 year old, and for the neophyte adult. Mrs. Commins is also the author of "Lullabies of Many Lands" and a contributor to "A Treasury of Stephen Foster." She lives at 85 Elm Road.

Guest soloist for the Brahms' piece will be Robert Gerle, Hungarian violinist who made his debut at Town Hall in New York in October, 1953. Mr. Gerle, who plays the famous Haydn Stradivarius, was chosen concertmaster by Konstantin, who invited him to play the Brahms' Concerto and to repeat it three times that season.

Honored at Tanglewood. Upon his arrival in the United States shortly after World War II, Mr. Gerle received the Piatigorsky Award to Tanglewood. At Tanglewood, he was chosen concertmaster by Konstantin, who invited him to play the Brahms' Concerto and to repeat it three times that season.

Tickets for Monday's concert are now on sale at the University Store.

SHE ARRANGED SHANTIES

For Princeton Symphony. Mrs. Saxe Commins is a gifted concert pianist who turned to folk music because it is "real and true, without artiness or pretension." Her arrangement of a group of sea shanties will be played next Monday by the Princeton Symphony at the afternoon young people's concert.

The songs in the medley, "Whiskey Johnny," "Shenandoah," "What Do We Do With a Drunken Sailor?" "Sailor's Hornpipe" and "Farewell to Thee, Dear Spanish Lady," were chosen by Mrs. Commins from a collection of shanties presented to her by Eugene O'Neill, an intimate friend of the Commins family. O'Neill was one of the many authors whose works were guided into publication by the editorial hand of Mrs. Commins' late husband, and the playwright became a close friend of Mrs. Commins through their mutual interest in songs of the sea.

"Before the rehearsal of 'The Iceman Cometh,'" Mrs. Commins recalls, "Gene asked me to take down a couple of sea songs he knew so that the actors in the play could sing them. Well, he had a croaking, quavering voice and he sang these two songs for me as best he could while I sat at the piano and took them down in pencil."

The two songs, "Potato Song" and "Rap-Rap" song, were sea songs O'Neill had learned from his father, and they were incorporated into "The Iceman Cometh" as they were written down by Mrs. Commins. Her copy of the O'Neill play bears a grateful inscription in the author's crabbed and shaky hand. Mrs. Commins is the author of a children's book on music,

Music In Princeton

very talented American pianist, who gave his first concert in Carnegie Recital Hall at the age of 12. Next fall, barely 19, he will be entering upon his junior year at Columbia University.

The program consisted of works by Brahms, MacDowell, Schumann, Chopin, Ravel and Debussy. Though long in playing time and short in the historical period represented by the composers, the program was saved from monotony by Mr. Towlen's sensitive recognition of the individuality of each work.

He has a phenomenal technique, of the nonacademic kind, always subservient to the requirements of the score. His playing, which was reflective and unassuming, showed that his interest lay more in communicating the musical thought than in intruding any interpretation of a personal nature to draw the attention of the audience to himself.

It seemed almost as if he wished his listeners to absorb the music without being particularly aware of a performer. The piano, save for a slightly recalcitrant pedal, responded happily under his fine, sure hands. It met the challenge in brilliant passages and answered the call for liquid tone or delicate staccato.

Two Intermezzi and two Capricci of Brahms were first on the program. One might question the interpretation of the Intermezzo, Opus 117, No. 2, a "tranquil, autumn piece." It was played a bit feverishly and not the best choice for an opening number.

After the Brahms Mr. Towlen offered the first of four sonatas by Edward MacDowell, the "Tragic," chosen to honor the centennial of the composer's birth. Dr. Ernest Hutchinson calls it "a noble work, sadly neglected by our concert pianists." It was good to have it vividly brought back to life in Princeton where, in 1898, the University conferred the degree of Doctor of Music on Mr. MacDowell.

After an intermission we heard the Nachttuck, Opus 23, No. 2 of Schumann, the Chopin Fantaisie and the Sonatine of Ravel. The Fantaisie is one of Chopin's most inspired works and was given a resounding performance.

It may be quibbling to suggest that the introductory "Marcia" should be played in exact time, leaving the rest of the Fantaisie with its inherent excitement and its dramatic middle section, the latitude of expression it requires. Comparing the Fantaisie, the Sonatine of Ravel, a masterpiece of form, brought us back to heel.

The last two numbers on the program were "Reflets dans l'eau" and "L'isle joyeuse" of Debussy. Mr. Towlen was perfectly at home in the performance of this impressionistic music. The "Reflets" was delicately shimmering and the "Isle," brilliant, gay and effective.

As an encore we heard another Debussy, "Golliwog's cake walk" from the delightful Suite, "The Children's Corner." It is to be hoped that Mr. Towlen will return to Princeton, play to a larger audience and give us the opportunity of hearing some music of the eighteenth and twentieth centuries.

Unbleached muslin has been used for a skirt with unpressed pleats, black topstitching and two pockets, one on top of the other, but the top one slightly off center. Interesting to look at. $7.95.

Burlap this year has been treated to a horizontal print, and this black print, in dark green or Chinese red, makes a cheerful round-hewn skirt. Another model has fringed pockets, three self-buttons down the front and a fringed hem.

On the assumption that it will rain again, Bailey's has stocked a unique new raincoat. (Well, it's really an "all-weather" coat, the way they all are these days.) It's orlon and wool jersey backed with (or laminated to) a layer of something that looks like the spongy stuff dry cleaners put on clothes hangers.

The coat itself is a sleek, straight model with slot pockets and single or double-breasted styling. In bright, bright red, black or powder blue for $21.95.

Maternity wear for spring begins at Bailey's with a $13.95 popover top in the gayest stripes of orange, turquoise, white and raspberry, cut with a square neck and no sleeves at all. For dress, you might choose a beige maternity suit with hip-length jacket edged with beige braid, and an overblouse in beige with small white dots.

By the way, Smoothie has a Lycra panty girdle for only $3.98. It weighs less than the price tag, and it's made in a damask-like jacquard design.

Report from THE MAYOR

Investment: It seems likely that 1961 will be a year in which Mayor and Council will decide to make a substantial investment in the acquisition of land and the development of facilities related to streets, off-street parking and other Borough needs. After last Tuesday's regular meeting, the governing body held a special session with the Borough Attorney in order to instruct him with respect to a number of pending legal matters, several of them involving real estate purchases or leases. As contemplated by the Finance Committee, the Council may soon plan the details of an omnibus bond issue to cover a wide range of municipal projects that will have a bearing on the community's future.

Yes: The Mayor addressed the Princeton Kiwanis on Thursday on behalf of the proposed Youth Employment Service. A number of communities throughout America have found this special project of great value to teenagers and to prospective employers. A sponsoring committee in Princeton has been hard at work planning the many details that will insure a successful beginning of the ven-

More Vacations

Township school children learned this week that they will have an extra vacation next year. The School Board has decided to schedule a week's vacation for the end of February, the time of the year when colds and virus infections make the greatest dent in the attendance list. The schedule:

Sept. 11—School opens.
Nov. 10—Teachers' Convention.
Nov. 23-24—Thanksgiving.
Dec. 23-Jan. 2—Christmas.
Feb. 17-25—Midwinter.
Apr. 14-22—Spring.
May 30—Memorial Day.

June 20—School closes. The schedule provides for 183 days, three more than required by state law.

ture in the coming months. If the reaction of local Kiwanians is typical of local business and professional sentiment, the Y.E.S. should anticipate considerable help in this town.

Ex Office: Among the assignments of the Mayor are certain ex-officio memberships on boards and committees. One of the most important of these is related to Princeton Hospital.

Saturday morning's schedule included a meeting of the public relations committee of that board. This week, the Mayor hopes to attend meetings of the personnel committee and the practical nursing committee. The full board meets on March 27.

International: One of the special pleasures of being Mayor of Princeton is the great opportunity to meet with an unending stream of visitors from far-away lands.

Last week we attended a very exciting formal party in New York at the invitation of Ambassador Louis Ignac Pinto of the Republic of Dahomey. Ambassador Pinto was one of the guests at last October's UN celebration in Princeton. We have been in frequent touch with him; and last week, he asked us to share with more than 300 UN guests his welcome of Dahomey's foreign minister.

On Thursday, we had a distinguished visitor from the Philippines, Mr. Ben Somara. On Sunday, the Mayor attended the American Field Service seminar on the Peace Corps and the Morven reception for the Eisenhower Fellows representing many nations around the world.

"Tell It To The Mayor!": The regular weekly open house sessions will be held on Friday, March 24, and on Thursday, March 30, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings.

Before this week's Borough Hall open house, Princeton's Mayor expects to pay a brief set-aside visit to San Juan, Puerto Rico, where each Wednesday morning the Mayor or his representative of city holds a similar no-appointment session with the citizens of that community. Next week expect will include some notes on that bi-lingual "Tell It to the Mayor!" session.

Among the panel participants, who are involved with international agencies, will be Dean J. Douglas Brown, Herbert S. Bailey Jr., Dr. Frederick H. Harrison, Dr. Klaus E. Knorr, Dr. William W. Lockwood, Dr. Gardner Patterson, Dr. L. Man Spitzer Jr., and Dr. Lewis V. Thomas.

In realizing Woodrow Wilson's goal of "Princeton in the nation's service," Dean Brown pointed out, "Many believe that the time has now come to recognize the rapidly growing responsibilities of the university."

OFFICE OPENED

By Health Association. The Princeton Mental Health Association has opened a new office in the Whitney Center, 253 Nassau Street, to enable residents to make use of services of the Mercer County Association for Mental Health.

The Rev. David McAlpin Jr., chairman, and the Association's executive director, Lewis Wechsler, will be available for consultation at the office on Monday afternoons and by appointment. The new office will offer service by phone throughout the week. The number is WA 4-1072.

The Rev. Mr. McAlpin said his group expects to plan more educational programs for Princeton area organizations from the new office. Mr. Wechsler and Donald Clark, psychologist for Borough Schools, will speak April 11 at a meeting of the Parents' Teacher Association of the Nassau Street School.

BOATING CLASS CHANGED

Registration High. The first class in a course in seamanship and small boat handling, sponsored by the Princeton Foulie No. 41 of the U. S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, will be held Monday at 8 p.m. in the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club, North Harrison Street. The class had been scheduled to meet in Warren Laboratory, Washington Road. Registration larger than expected forced the change of location.

RECESSION AND AN INFAMOUS HEDGE: Bryce Thompson (right) finds no fault with the way President Kennedy has run the country so far, but Myron Hancock wishes the President would soft pedal the recession issue. For other comments on JFK's first 60 days, see below. (Staff Photo.)

Question of the Week

Question: Do you approve of the way President Kennedy has run the country during his first 60 days in the White House?

Where asked: Nassau Street

Mrs. Hanford Faruham, 315 Nassau Street, teacher: Yes, I do. I think he's chosen good men and supported good programs. I think he's given quite a different flavor to his program—it's much more idealistic. For example, his Peace Corps plan and his 10-point Marshall Plan for Latin America that he has just announced.

Myron Hancock, 12 Doran Avenue, electrical contractor: I think he's trying but I don't think he should pin-point recession areas as he has. I'm a business man and this recession publicly hurts. When you are near a terribly recessed area, everybody hangs on to his money unnecessarily, and it makes the problem worst than it is.

W. Bryce Thompson, IV, Moores Hill, Mt. Rose Road, Hopewell, real estate broker: As an independent voter who voted against him, I've been very pleasantly surprised at the consecutive approach he has taken thus far. The way he campaigned he gave the impression that he was going to make his first 100 days similar to FDR's. I think he campaigned in a more liberal vein than he intended to use in order to win votes. I feel the closeness of the election sobered him. I think he has shown good judgment in his appointments and courage in appointing his brother to a job he felt Bobby was best qualified to hold. Although I don't agree with him on the church-school issue, I think it shows backbone to stand up to his own church on the issue of question of constitutionality. As an investor, I think that President Kennedy's policy of maintaining economic growth in excess of 5 percent per year will continue the inflationary spiral we are now in and will make money for property owners who can use this as an inflationary hedge.

Mrs. Fred A. Olafson, 110 Prospect Avenue, housewife: I approve of him highly. I see him fighting against time to reach the new frontiers before Mr. Goldwater repeats the 20th Century. He's terrific.

Charles Greece, 44 Wilgins Street, graduate student: Yes, I do. It isn't so much what he does as it is what he hasn't done. I think he's been moderate. I don't think he's gone to any extremes, and I think he has used common sense rather than follow some of the extremists in his own party.

Mrs. Ellen Summerfield, 964 Princeton - Kingston Road, housewife: Yes, I do and I might add I didn't vote for him. I would now, though, if I had a second chance. He's been courageous. He's taken a stand on these things, even things that aren't popular among the electorate. I like his federal aid to education bill that he is sponsoring. I think he has made some very good appointments, ones that have been based on ability and not on politics. He's taken control personally of running the administration rather than delegating its powers to others as his predecessor did.

Jacques R. Freese, 74 College Road, assistant professor, Princeton University: Very definitely. He's been active and involved in what is being done. The government is being run by the president now, not someone close to it. Moreover he gives very definite signs of keeping his campaign promises. It would seem that we will have our own forward-looking foreign policy and not one which is merely a response to that of the Russians.

Mrs. John Bell, Jr., 15 Hillside Road, housewife: Oh, yes, indeed so. I approve of everything he does. I think he's just wonderful. I wouldn't miss him on TV. I think he's terrific. I think he is a real performer.

Mrs. John Maybury, 39 Humbert Street, housewife: Yes, I do. I think he is a man of action and has tried to put all his campaign promises through to the best of his ability. I think he will continue to do so until he gets the country back on its feet.

Norman Stern, Morrisville, Pa., public accountant: I would say, yes. He's aggressive, he knows what he wants and is willing to go after it. I found that he will compromise to the extent that he still gets what he wants—or close to it—without, at the same time, downgrading his own stand or the country's. Actually, in the first 60 days there hasn't been too much accomplished and it is hard to do much one way or the other. Let's just say, he's in there trying.

Mrs. Thomas Waite, 54 Herndon Circle, statistical assistant: I have to admire him for his strong leadership, although I don't necessarily agree with all his policies. I don't necessarily agree with the way he wants to get the federal government into everything. I would rather rely on the private sector. I specifically disagree with his economic policies, but, again, I respect his taking a strong stand on what he believes in. I think this is much better than having an administration whose policies are unclear.

Mrs. Marjorie Cook, Metuchen, advertising salesman for Town Crier: Yes. He seems to be going ahead with a much more positive action than our previous president. Mr. Eisenhower delayed too much, asked for too many opinions, and seemed to lack the training for the job. Kennedy, on the other hand, has a good background. He's been raised in a family that has always been in touch with politics. I think it is quite obvious he knows what to do.

CLOTHES FOR KOREA
Two Women Run Drive. The generosity of hundreds of families in the Princeton area and the zeal of two women have produced 3500 pounds of good clothing for Korean orphans, clothing which is now on its way to a South Korean orphanage whose children have been in desperate need of clothing. The prime mover in the clothing drive has been Mrs. Sheldon B. Wells 60, Lawrence Road, whose husband, a major in the First Cavalry Division stationed in Korea, told his wife about the plight of an orphanage which his outfit had adopted. Mrs. Wells was so moved by her husband's stories of cold, hungry, half-clad children that she decided to start a private clothing drive to help.

Working with her friend, Mrs. Edward L. Conway of 30 So. Stanworth Drive, and with members of the Sunnyside Civic Association, Hamilton Township, Mrs. Wells began her requests for good, used children's clothing. She was so successful that, by the time the cartons were shipped off last week, she had, not only used garments, but dozens of new diapers, complete new layettes, complete new outfits for boys and for girls, dozens of pairs of new shoes for children ranging in age from toddler size to early teens.

In addition, Mrs. Wells received nine requests from families who would like to adopt one of the Korean children in the orphanage. She has referred these families to the various agencies that handle such adoptions.

SEMINARIANS PROTEST

Oppose Private School Aid. A petition protesting direct federal aid to private or parochial schools has been sent to all members of Congress by members of the student body, faculty and administration of Princeton Theological Seminary. The petition has been signed by 270 persons.

The petition is aimed at a potential rider to President Kennedy's aid-to-education bill which would provide funds for non-public schools. The original copy has been sent to Representative Adam Clayton B. Powell, chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, which is considering the bill. Copies have gone to all members of Congress.

The petition urges the members of Congress "to uphold the heritage of our freedom in Church-State relations." It advocates the development of religious and public education within a pattern of "public school education supported by the tax dollar and religious education supported by the free will offerings of religious men." Text of the petition was drafted by a committee of six Princeton Theological Seminary students. They are: Barry Downing, Edward B. Fiske, George E. Hollingshead, Jr., Judith Kingston, John L. Larson and Roy Plautsch.

Miss Lucy Shaw was re-elected president of the club at the spring meeting. Mrs. Donald Leigh was elected to the post of secretary and Mrs. Donald Horwig was re-elected treasurer.

SEN. JONES TO SPEAK

At gubernatorial Candidate. State Senator Walter Jones, Republican candidate for governor of New Jersey will speak Sunday at 8 p.m. at the Nassau Inn. The meeting, which is open to the public, is being jointly sponsored by the Republican Club and the Women's Republican Club of Princeton.

Senator Jones is the third of the three Republican candidates for governor to appear in Princeton. State Senator Wayne Dumont spoke on February 26 and former Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell on March 5.

Purpose of the meetings is to give the candidates a chance to explain the issues and their solutions to them. Hans K. Sander is president of the Republican Club and Mrs. Percy H. Clerk is president of the Women's Republican Club.

SYLVAN WINS GOLD MEDAL AS BEST POOL

SYLVAN POOL, owned by Dr. and Mrs. N. Smolian of Bordentown, New Jersey, was recently awarded the Gold Medal for design excellence by Swimming Pool Age, the major publication of the swimming pool industry. Thus, as for 14 years, Sylvan Pools are the most proved, most popular, most reliable swimming pools available. Sylvan Pools are hand-crafted of steel-reinforced concrete and guaranteed for five full years. You may be surprised to learn, in many instances, that a Sylvan Pool costs no more than pools of far lesser quality. Low bank rates with no down payment requires as little as $60 per month. Where quality and pride of ownership is a consideration, a Sylvan Pool is your best buy. For information in the Princeton area . . . Ask a family that owns a Sylvan Pool. Otherwise, you may call Princeton, Walnut 4-2040 or drop a note to SYLVAN POOLS, 201 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey. (Advertisement)

 the Harger Drunk-o-meter and Breathalyzer instruments used in sobriety tests; a Soundcriber; an Electric Speedometer; an electric gun lock; a magnetic retriever; tear gas guns and grenades.

A jail cell and an actual electric chair are also included in the display. The electric chair is an exact duplicate of the one now in use in Connecticut State Prison. Attendees will be on hand to explain the various items in the exhibit, which is designed to be of interest to both children and adults.

"Jell on Wheels" was created by J. Edward Stavins, high sheriff of New Haven County, Conn. The bus in which it tours the country was custom-built for the purpose at a cost of $25,000. There is no admission charge to go through the exhibit but voluntary donations are accepted to help continue the program.

HE MAKES HARPSICHOIDS
 in Hopewell. Christopher Bannister, a young man as slim, vibrant and highly tuned as the instruments he makes, has set up drawing board and workshop in Hopewell and has begun, carefully and with the most precise and loving attention to detail, to build harpsichords in the manner of the 18th century English masters. Young Mr. Bannister, who was graduated from the harpsichord department at Oberlin in 1959, learned his craft as an apprentice to Hubbard and Dowd, the Cambridge, Massachusetts, harpsichord manufacturers.

He expounds and follows the philosophy of those who believe that present-day harpsichords should produce, not "improved" sounds, but the "real" sounds that were produced by Baroque instruments. In his designs, therefore, he either copies these old harpsichords outright or uses them as prototypes.

"I design all my instruments like the 18th century English ones," Mr. Bannister explains. "This is quite different from the way many of my contemporaries build theirs. They like to make experimental modern ones with metal frames, rigid construction to keep the instrument in tune, action that won't go out of regulation and so on."

"But the last thing I want to do," he laughs, "is to build an instrument whose chief characteristic is that it will stay in tune. To me, the tone and the sound are of paramount importance. These experiments with plywoods and metal frames—I regard their results as deplorable!"

A MAN AND HIS HARPSICHOID: Christopher Bannister displays the harpsichord he built for the February concert of the American Society of Ancient Instruments in Philadelphia. Its Georgian case has African mahogany center panels, birch inlay, cross-bands of Brazilian rosewood, Thuya burl paneling behind the keyboard, ebony natural keys and Swiss pearwood accidentals with ivory veneer. (This is the opposite of the standard black-and-white piano keyboard). Story, this page. (Staff Photo).

The delicate harpsichord slips easily out of tune and every player learns to tune his instrument as a matter of course, just as a violinist does.

Designed for Sound. Sound is a matter of layout and design, Mr. Bannister explains. He believes that too many modern harpsichords are not large enough to produce good sound and he strives, in his designs, to achieve a smaller instrument which will reproduce as nearly as possible, the tone of the large ones.

"European factories, especially German ones, are turning out dreadful little instruments these days," says Mr. Bannister. "Small enough to fit in the back of a station wagon. Mass producing them cheaply like sausages. Awful!"

Mr. Bannister's custom-made harpsichords cost about $2,000. The instrument pictured on this page has been sold for $2,700. A concert grand, larger than a concert grand piano, would be $5,000 or possibly $5,500.

To build a harpsichord, one must be an architect, a master woodworker and a musician and Mr. Bannister is all three, to the highest degree.

Infinite Accuracy. The millimetric accuracy involved in building a fine harpsichord makes precision electronics sound almost like rough carpentry. Mr. Bannister begins at the drawing board where he plans his instrument down to the point where every string is pre-determined in length to the hundredths of an inch. Then he begins to build with his woods, sawing, planing and sanding for thousandth-of-an-inch tolerance. Swiss pearwood is particularly well-suited to work of this kind because it is hard and fine-grained. The wood has been used for harpsichord jacks for many years.

The sound board of a Bannister harpsichord is Sitka spruce, chosen because its grain pattern corresponds so closely to the pattern of woods used in old instruments. This pattern must be vertical, not wavy in any part, or the sound will be distorted.

Built for Tone. The spruce is hand-planed to about one-eighth inch in thickness, but varying in thickness from place to place so that it will reflect subtleties of sound as it vibrates. Mr. Bannister compares the sound board to the taut skin of a drum. When the board is finished and in place in the instrument, it is so thin that light from a flashlight will show through it.

The strings of a harpsichord, of course, are plucked, not struck like those of a piano. The instrument pictured has three sets of strings, the thickest of which is thinner than a piano string. They are plucked by a minute bit of leather the shape of a horn, horn, attached to a hair-jointed jack about the girth of a pencil. The eight-foot strings are tuned to standard pitch.

By using hand-stops, the player can play on one or two sets of strings, using two when he wants to increase the sound. The third set of strings—a four-foot set—produces tones an octave higher and is used to add sparkle and carrying power to the sound. "You see?" Mr. Bannister smiles, "the harpsichord is not so limited and 'tinkly' as most people think."

In the recent past, harpsichords were bought almost entirely by professional musicians, universities or music schools, rarely by private individuals. But today there is a growing amateur movement and many people are ordering harpsichords as they would pianos, for the private enjoyment of music in the home.

CANCER UNIT ON TOUR

A member of the Princeton faculty since 1948, Professor Bricker has directed three summer institutes for high school teachers of science. Memo For Disarmament Coordinator John J. McCloy

By Clarence E. Pickett

President-Elect Kennedy is to be commended for the primacy he is giving to disarmament, both in the number of top echelon leaders he is appointing to deal with disarmament and in the support he will give to the new Disarmament Administration. However, despite this increased personnel and machinery, the U. S. is in danger of retreating from its commitment to the goal of comprehensive disarmament with inspection.

If some strategy planners have their way, the U. S. will abandon its effort to end the arms race, and hack track to a position which seeks only some form of arms limitation.

Disarmament "Arms Control"

Should these advisors succeed, the U. S. will give up disarmament for "arms control," and the balance of terror will continue under the title, "stabilized deterrence."

The proposal is that we negotiate a military posture with the Russians in which each side would place its reliance for security on an agreed number of relatively invulnerable missiles, say 200-500 on each side, and other equable weaponry.

While such an agreement might formalize the missile race, it can hardly be construed as an adequate or imaginative response to the world's peril.

Stabilized Deterrence

A "stable deterrence" would continue all the major hazards of the arms race: the loss of accidental nuclear war, accelerated limited war, spread of nuclear weapons to other countries (diluting the deterrent), continuation of massive research on even more destructive weapons technology, with all the psychological tensions and pressures which now prevail.

The proponents of "stabilized deterrence" abandon hope of ending the arms race. Yet the laws of probability will allow the arms race to continue for only a finite period without a major war by accident or incident. They are suggesting in effect that the world lie down and await the inevitable collision, perhaps postponed by their formula for structuring and continuing the balance of terror by agreement. They apparently prefer this total risk to the limited and theoretical risk of a controlled disarmament agreement.

Is Agreement Possible?

Some "arms controllers" are not psychologically prepared to accept agreements with the Russians, no matter how sound. Some honestly feel that a "stabilized deterrence" is a step on the road to disarmament and are naive enough to believe it is negotiable.

Some proponents of this position are complete pessimists about the chances of getting controlled agreements with the Russians, and want to give up in advance. This pessimism is not justified: The Eastern and Western concepts of a disarmament treaty are now close in all their major provisions.

Test bed negotiations have shown Russian commitment, if reluctant, to inspection systems; the Russian negotiators are reported to be under pressure to achieve disarmament agreements before the Chinese and West German security nuclear weapons.

Limitless Peril

Other supporters of "arms control" are unprepared to face a world in which resort to military conflict is no longer possible, even if safeguarded by an effective United Nations peace force. They are unwilling to prosecute the ideological battle in political and economic terms. They do not have faith in the democratic process, and are afraid the U. S. might not win. They sell their nation short and thus commit it to limitless peril, forgetting that resort to war is not feasible even now, and that blind reliance on military might has allowed the Communists to "end run" the free world in the economic and political arena over and over again.

It is to be hoped that the new Disarmament Administration will annul the doctrine of "arms control" for the defeatism which it represents, and proceed under forced draft to produce workable proposals for controlled disarmament. He should set task forces to work to detail the techniques of control for each stage of disarmament. These should form the basis for a draft disarmament treaty to be presented by the U. S. to the U. N. General Assembly.

Toward Consolidation.

To The Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

The recent public discussions about a proposed study of the pros and cons of consolidation prompt me to make a suggestion which might facilitate such a study.

As a resident of the Township I have long been aware of the concern of Borough residents that consolidation might result in higher taxes to themselves. This concern arises out of the fact that the Borough has already installed most of the public facilities, such as the schools, which it believes it will need in the foreseeable future, while the Township is still relatively undeveloped and will therefore need additional public facilities.

Borough residents feel (with some basis, in my opinion) that the taxes received from new residential and commercial construction of light industrial, construction in the Township will not be sufficient to pay for the new public facilities. They feel, therefore, that some of the additional tax burden will have to be borne by existing ratepayers in the Township and that under consolidation part of this burden would fall on taxpayers in the former Borough area.

In addition, Borough residents are concerned about the fact that the Township now has somewhat larger public debt than the Borough. These problems would naturally be part of any study made on the subject of consolidation. If the study showed that consolidation under a uniform tax rate would result in former Borough taxpayers hearing an unfair portion of the existing Township debt or of the cost of new Township facilities, there are two ways, I suggest, to adjust the imbalance to overcome any unfairness:

1. A balance sheet could be drawn up of the assets (public facilities) and debts of each municipality, and the difference between the net assets of the Borough and Township could be determined. An adjustment could then be made in the tax rate so that the taxpayers of the area with the lesser net assets would pay higher taxes until they had paid up the difference. Presumably, this study would show that such payments should be made by the taxpayers of the present Township area because the Township now has less assets and more debt than the Borough. (This type of adjustment was part of the proposal of the Joint Consolidation Committee in 1953.)

2. The tax rate could be further adjusted so that the taxpayers in the former Township area would pay higher taxes for a period of years to absorb all, or a disproportionate part, of the cost of additional public facilities which would be constructed principally for the benefit of residents of the former Township area. The additional taxes could be established on a gradually diminishing scale so that as the Township area becomes fully developed, the tax rate for the entire consolidated municipality would eventually be equalized. (If present enabling legislation is not broad enough to permit such a tax differential, it should be no problem to get the State Legislature to make the necessary amendment.)

These adjustments would help to eliminate the financial problems of consolidation, thus permitting the residents of our single community to realize the benefits of unified planning and development, as well as achieve the savings of unified operation and management, on a fair tax basis.

"At 11:55 A.M. today, March 15, 1961, there was a primary blast which rocked my house with the intensity of a fairly major earthquake. A glass vase was shaken from its shelf and broken. I noticed no vibration or rattling of glass doors, which normally accompanies one of their secondary "bank shots," thus indicating that a rather large amount of dynamite was used for a buried primary blast."

"Apparently Kingston Trap Rock is making no effort whatever to lessen the intensity of the efforts of their blasting on surrounding houses."

Two Tons of TNT Apiece.

To The Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

General John Medaris has stated that the United States has in its stockpile of nuclear armament enough energy to provide the equivalent of two tons of TNT for every human being now alive. We can only assume that Russia has at least as much in its stockpile. Some people fear that this is good. Such destructive power makes war unthinkable. My opinion is that this type of reasoning is very dangerous nonsense. It presupposes that nations and their leaders act in a framework of rationality.

All of history teaches, however, that this is far from the truth. World War II, for example, have been deterred by the prospect of nuclear warfare? The answer must be no. It has just been a happy accident that nuclear power has been developed so far in nations whose present leaders are responsible enough to realize the idiosyncrasy of a nuclear war. Before these horror weapons fall into less responsible hands, before a mistake or miscalculation triggers the last of "civied" wars, it is imperative that those in power negotiate a general disarmament agreement.

This seems to me to be only reasonable. It seems so to many people. It is the responsibility of people who agree with this to let the government know how they feel, to make our leaders aware of popular support for disarmament.

The National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy is an organization devoted to mobilizing public opinion behind a sane approach to the problems of the nuclear age. Support for mutual disarmament is one of its primary policies. On March 25 to April 1, Sane is sponsoring a walk from McGuire Air Force Base to the U.N. building in New York. The title of the walk will be "Security through World Disarmament." The walkers will pass through Princeton on March 28 and will hold a meeting that night at the First Presbyterian Church on Nassau Street. Here, it seems to me, is a good opportunity for those who support these views to make themselves heard. The need is urgent. Those against disarmament and for the arms race are not silent.

SEASONS CONVERGE

Varied Activities Scheduled
A protracted winter sports season will still be in the picture this weekend while the first event on the spring calendar is taking place. Fencing and swimming are holdovers from the winter season. Lacrosse game is scheduled for Saturday afternoon and Tiger teams in track, golf and tennis are ready to head south.

Fencing enthusiasts will have a big weekend in Dillon Gymnasium, where the national intercollegiate will be held Friday and Saturday. Some 24 colleges are entered in the event.

Across the nation in Seattle, Wash., Princeton swimmers will take part in the NCAA championships, seeking the first national title for the Tigers since Bob Branner won the 100 and 200-yard butterfly in 1952. Gardiner Green, Eastern butterfly champion at 100 yards, and the medley relay quartet are in the best chance of a win.

The lacrosse it will open its 1961 season with the Philadelphia Lacrosse Club at 2 o'clock on Poe Field. Ferris Thomson looks for successful defense of the Ivy title and is hopeful that his relatively inexperienced squad may knock off one of the top eastern teams along the way. The first intercollegiate game will take place here against Maryland the following Saturday, April 1.

The mile relay team which won the indoor ICA and Hopalong titles during the winter season will run at Gainesville, Fla., this weekend in the Florida Relays. During the week of spring vacation which starts Saturday, the Princeton tennis team will play in Florida, the golfers will be in North Carolina and the track team in Virginia.

Baseball, too, is in the picture, with a pair of contests set for the new diamond east of Palmer Stadium next Friday and Saturday, March 31 and April 1. Pitching problems figure to be more than the Tigers can solve in the always uncertain ten-team Eastern League race.

QUINTET IMPRESSES

Despite Two NCAA Defeats, in basketball-minded communities, where inebriety is about as much in the picture as the North Pole, an Ivy League team walks out on the floor with the crowd ready to ridicule its play—or to tolerate it at best. For the regional NCAA final at Charlotte, N.C., last weekend, they were 12,000 fans present, and to most of them, Ivy League basketball was not to be lightly regarded.

Throughout the first half of the Tigers' game against St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, their reception was like-warm at best. But, playing without their captain, Don Swan, they left the floor behind only by 28-23 and when they launched a late second-half rally, the crowd swung over to them with a continuing roar.

With three and a half-minutes left, St. Joseph's had a 65-55 lead, with 32 seconds to go, the driving Princetonians cut this to 64-57 and senior Drew Hyland stole the ball. A free throw and a shot at the buzzer might have pulled the upset of the tournament. Hyland was called for traveling in a decision that the crowd felt was most unfair and St. Joseph's regained possession.

Fouls committed in an effort to get the ball out of the Tigers' hands in the closing seconds, and they left the floor beaten by 72-67. The crowd, however, got a look at Ivy League basketball that convinced it and Jake McCandless' quintet a host of friends.

Kaemmerlen Is Captain

Al Kaemmerlen, standout center for Princeton's Ivy League champions during the past two seasons, has been elected captain of the Princeton basketball team in 1961-62. He was named to the end-of-the-year team at the end of the current campaign.

The 6-5 Ardmore, Pa., resident totalled 400 points and 235 rebounds this year for respective averages of 15.7 and 13 per game. His floor shooting average of 51.1 was one of the best in the east.

Who's Dreaming? Twelve minutes after the game began Saturday night, Princeton was leading St. Bonaventure, third-ranked team in the nation, by 17 points. It had to be that the leadership Tigers, playing their third tough game in five days, would yield to the pressure that the Bonnies could produce, but again the crowd was rooting for the Ivy Leagueurs.

It was 42:31 for the Tigers at the intermission, but St. Bonaventure, paced by all-American Tom Stilt, was capable of playing a red-hot second half. Hitting on 23 of 34 shots from the floor, the Bonnies threw in 54 points in the final 20 minutes while holding the Tigers to 22. It was an 83-67 final. In the other game, St. Joe's earned a semifinal NCAA berth by trimming Wake Forest, 96 to 88.

Had not Don Swan stayed north because of the concussion he received early in the game against George Washington in the first NCAA contest, Princeton might well have topped St. Joe's. His leadership and his rebounding could have spelled the difference in the close game.

Pete Campbell (see "We Congratulate") and Al Kaemmerlen were both standouts for the Tigers at Charlotte. Kaemmerlen had 18 points against St. Joe's and 13 in the St. Bonaventure game while hauling in a good share of the rebounds. Mike Bartko was picked as Swan's replacement and gave a good performance both nights.

The Tigers finished with an 18-8 mark, and were the proud possessors of a couple of "firsts." They became the first Princeton team to defend the Ivy League supremacy, and they became the first Princeton team to win the Orange and Black's first game in NCAA tournament play.

Basketball Guard

It's a big move upward from Ivy League to NCAA competition, but Pete Campbell played his best basketball of the season when Princeton took part in the national collegiate tournament. While a number of players contributed to the unexpectedly strong showing the Tigers made in post-season play, it was Campbell's ability to average 25 points in the three games that told much of the story.

A year ago as a sophomore, he and his teammates had pretty well frozen when they moved into Madison Square Garden to face Duke in the first round of NCAA action. Needing 11 points to set a one-season scoring record of 501, Campbell got them—and no more—as the Tigers came home a soundly beaten team.

This year, it was a different story. The seasoned junior collected a great 27 points (11 for 18 from the floor) as the Tigers romped past George Washington in the quarter-finals at Charlotte.

Campbell hit for 24 against both St. Joseph's and St. Bonaventure, including a performance of 12 out of 13 from the foul line. At the end of the week-end, Princeton boost Ivy League prestige so heavily, Pete Campbell was named to the all-tournament team.

All-Ivy as a sophomore, the Ho-ho-hus resident was named to the league's top five again at the conclusion of the past season. The achievement gives him the chance to become the first Princetonian in league history to earn an all-star rating for three straight years.

Early in the first game of the 1961-62 campaign, Pete Campbell's second point of the evening will give him a career total of 1,000. Long before the season ends, he'll set a new three-year record—possibly one that will top 1,500.

There are basketball fans who will tell you that when the 1961 season ended, Penn and not Princeton had the best team, and that the Quakers will finish on top a year from now. Pete Campbell's scoring punch—good for an average of almost 20 points a game and at its best when the point was toughest—may prove otherwise.

David H. Peterson of Glenmore Road, Hopewell; John F. Cook, Heathcote Farm, Kingston; and captain-elect Austin P. Sullivan Jr. of Province Line Road.

Princeton's punters were awarded to Harrison S. Fraker Jr., 150 Cleveland Lane; E. Webb Harrison, 9 Battle Road; and Hugh D. Wise III, 77 Westcott Road. Michael Korman of 371 Riverside Drive was awarded freshman managerial honors.

Princeton's varsity team had a season record of 9-14, with a 3-5 Ivy League mark and a third place finish. The freshman team was 7-9 on the season.

RCA LABS WINS TITLE
In Industrial League, The sixteam YMCA Research and Industrial Basketball League ended its season with unbeaten RCA Labs winning the final game from the 3 B's to capture the title. The YMCA and 3 B's, each with 48 marks, finished in a tie for second place.

The League champions came very close to dropping in their finale. With two minutes of play remaining, the 3 B's led by six points, but the Lab players came back to tie the game on three quick steals. RCA's Jerry Shaheen, with 20 seconds to go, dropped in the winning goal to give his teammates a 46-46 victory. Joe Burns was high for RCA with 13; Bill Stryker scored 13 and Tom Perks and Ray Rivera 12 each for the losers.

YMCA took advantage of the 3 B's loss, beating winless RCA Astro, 46-47, to move into a second place tie with the 3 B's. Lenny Kraus got 40 percent of the points, hitting on eight field goals and four free throws for a game high of 20 points. Gerry Gibbs and Charles Carroll had 20 points between them for RCA.

In the final game, Opinion Research Corporation clinched third place by edging fourth-place Food Machinery and Chemical, 38-36. Ray Tammisi with 17 points and Fred Malone with 13 led ORC's attack. Jim Wagner and Peter Turner with eight apiece paced FMC.

The league now enters a two-week playoff. A championship and second and third place winners will be determined March 28. The public is invited to attend these games which will be played at the Princeton High School Gymnasium starting at 7.

The final standings:

	Won	Lost
RCA Labs	10	0
3 B's	6	4
YMCA	6	4
ORC	5	5
FMC	4	6
RCA Astro	0	10

The award, among the highest honors bestowed at Columbia, is presented annually by college's Alumni Association. Presentation ceremonies will be held April 11 in New York. Their achievement consisted of discoveries concerning the suprarenal cortex hormones, including the isolation of cortisone, now used in the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis.

DEAR TRAVELER,

Now that St. Patrick's Day is over and all the celebrations are just a memory, some of the Irishmen we've been talking to say that sure and it's a shame that it comes only once in a year. So never let it be said that we nine people of the Emerald Isle will sit around wishin' that things was different — no sir — not them!

There's a party of them that's going to see for their 'selfs! Going to kiss the Blarney Stone — in person; that they are! Sure they're comin to you for all their arrangements and they'll find it more fun and less costly when you make up their itinerary and reservations and put their tickets in their hands for them.

We've heard it said that Ireland is one place on earth where prices are the same as they were before the great war of the 'forties!

It's a fine time they'll be havin' and we wish we were going along — don't you?
